

Abstract of the Disclosure

Disclosed herein is an optical apparatus including: a variable configuration mirror unit having a reflecting surface for reflecting incident light and capable of causing change in the configuration of the reflecting surface upon turning on electricity; and a lens for bringing the incident light into an internal part, a mirror holding section for holding the variable configuration mirror unit being formed on the lens.